"The COVID-19 pandemic accentuated healthcare payers and providers need to invest in solutions that can help them reduce business continuity risks while improving operational efficiency. In particular, intelligent automation emerged as a high priority area for these buyers," said Ankur Verma, Practice Director, Everest Group. "Exela Technologies, with its automation-led approach, emerged as highly suited to address buyers' needs. Its home-grown automation expertise and a diversified client base across the size spectrum, empowers it with a holistic understanding of client needs and adequate customization, placing it as one of the Leaders on the Intelligent Automation in Healthcare – Solutions PEAK Matrix® Assessment 2022."

Exela was recognized as one of the few providers who have developed most of their healthcare automation solutions in-house, providing them the ability to customize solutions based on client needs efficiently, while reducing operational costs.

"Infusion of Intelligent Automation in Healthcare has reduced fragmentation of providers, provided interoperability between proprietary applications and allowed data mobility across the Healthcare ecosystem," said Srinu Murali, Exela's President, Americas, & APAC. "We are thankful to our customers, some of the most innovative healthcare institutions globally, who gave us the opportunity to deploy strategic and innovative initiatives, while leveraging our deep knowledge of the healthcare industry. This has enabled us to be recognized as a Leader in the inaugural edition of the report. We look forward to our continued contribution to the betterment of the industry."

Exela's Healthcare Intelligent Automation portfolio provides a seamless digital journey in the process-heavy Healthcare industry. Healthcare is plagued with hundreds of repetitive, manual tasks, which account for over $1 trillion in administrative costs per year or close to 35% of the overall cost. Exela's Intelligent Automation uses a mix of proprietary RPA and AI/ML technology to provide highly scalable and adaptable processes strategies to significantly reduce costs.

Everest Group is an industry-leading research firm focused on strategic IT, business process services, and engineering. The 'Leaders' in Everest Group's PEAK Matrix assessments are those companies that demonstrate exceptional innovation and transition management in their engagements while enhancing technological capabilities through proprietary solutions, partnerships or acquisition.
